Experienced Sales + Customer

Service

The key...great customer service. We love the marine industry and one of our core missions is to help raise the customer service bar in this industry.

However, the internet has completely transformed the way we do business. While we do business. While traditional sales principles still very much apply (such as building a solid relationship with the customer, earning their trust, adding value, customer qualification, etc), how you get there is now very different. It used to be that a customer valued a solid handshake and an honest smile. In a traditional face to face environment, skilled salespeople could qualify a customer based on age, many buyer

body language, personality type, etc. In today's internet

This is a good example of the 2001 Sea Ray 225 Weekender. The roomy cockpit provides great seating for up to 8 passengers. The walk-through windscreen provides access to the bow area for sunning and relaxing.

Below, the v-berth sleeps two and allows the dinette table to seat family and friends around a comfortable dining area. The small galley has a sink and trash receptacle for food preparation.

There's a sound system to provide music entertainment and a port-potty located on the starboard side.

All in all, a great weekend cruiser!
